

ABSTRACT

A method for measuring the optical parameters of a phase object, comprising recording a moiré pattern viewed through said phase object, said moiré pattern being formed by illuminating by means of a source of diffuse light, first and second gratings positioned in the space between said light source and said phase object, wherein the plane of said first grating is parallel to the plane of said second grating, and calculating the optical parameters of interest from said moiré pattern.

10026951-122701